FREE CORE SKILLS TRAINING

is an introduction into children's and youth work specially designed for church-based children's and youth workers.

They will be down-to-earth practical training sessions facilitated by experienced youth and children's workers and trainers, led by Sharon Rowe, Methodist Church Youth Participation Project Manager for the South and South West.

The days run from 9am (registration and coffee) for opening worship at 9:30am, with closing prayers at 4.30pm.

Aims of the course;

- To explore the aims, values and priorities of children's and youth work.
- To reflect on and extend understanding of how children develop.
- To gain an understanding of the world children and young people live in, their influences, pressures and opportunities.
- To explore the meaning of spirituality and its relationship with faith.
- To explore what it means to be a team and your role within team.
- To develop an understanding of different learning styles and the skills required to deliver a programme.
- To have a better understanding of how to work more safely and how to handle problems or issues.
